

Access Control Policy

Version v1 · Effective 15 November 2025 · Status: published

Owner: Chief Information Security Officer · Category: Information security

Applies to: Technology

Fictional policy written for a software demonstration. Kestrel Mutual is an invented organization. This is not real policy, law or regulatory guidance.

1 Purpose

This policy sets how people are given, and lose, access to Kestrel Mutual systems that hold customer data.

2 Production access

2.1 Least privilege

Access to production systems holding customer data is granted at the lowest level that allows the person to do their assigned work.

2.2 Named accounts

Every person uses a named account. Shared accounts must not be used on production systems.

2.3 Standing access

Standing production access requires approval from the system owner and is reviewed under clause 3.1.

2.4 Temporary access

Temporary production access requires approval from the requester's line manager and expires automatically after 14 days.

2.5 Contractors

Contractors may hold temporary production access only while a signed confidentiality agreement is on file.

3 Access reviews

3.1 Quarterly review

System owners review all production access every quarter and remove access that is no longer needed within five working days of the review.

3.2 Leavers

Access for a person leaving Kestrel Mutual is removed by the end of their last working day.
