

Retention and Deletion Policy

Version v1 · Effective 1 April 2025 · Status: published

Owner: Head of Records · Category: Records management

Applies to: Claims

Fictional policy written for a software demonstration. Kestrel Mutual is an invented organization. This is not real policy, law or regulatory guidance.

1 Purpose

This policy sets how long Kestrel Mutual keeps customer records and how they are deleted.

2 Definitions

2.1 Record

A “record” is any information created or received in the course of business that documents a decision, transaction or communication, in any format.

3 Responsibilities

3.1 Record owners

Each record type has a record owner who makes sure records are kept for the period in this policy and no longer.

4 Customer records

4.1 Customer account records

Customer account records are retained for six years after the customer relationship ends, then deleted.

4.2 Marketing preferences

Marketing consent records are retained while the customer relationship lasts and for two years afterwards.

5 Claim records

5.1 Standard retention

Customer claim records are retained for seven years after the claim closes, then deleted.

5.2 Copies and derived datasets

Copies of claim records, including extracts and datasets derived from them, follow the same retention period as the source records.

5.3 Deletion holds

Records under a litigation or regulatory hold must not be deleted until Legal releases the hold, regardless of any deletion request.

6 Deletion

6.1 Deletion method

Deletion must remove a record from live systems within 30 days of the end of its retention period and from backups within a further 90 days.
